Our four years at the State College at Bridgewater have been characterized by change in the world, on our campus, and, above all, in ourselves. We regret the passing of the small college—traditional Bridgewater—but the physical and intellectual growth prompted by a larger student body creates the exciting atmosphere in which we graduate.

We, The Class of 1967, are a product of the traditions and the innovations at Bridgewater. We have learned “not to be ministered unto but to minister” as we have enjoyed the intellectual challenge stimulated by a larger selection of major and minor fields of study and a greater variety of electives within our chosen fields.

We have developed and will continue to develop intellectually just as the college has expanded and will continue to expand physically. The Conant Science Building and the new dormitories, the anticipated student union and the new library building—all these are evidence of physical growth which parallels our intellectual progress.

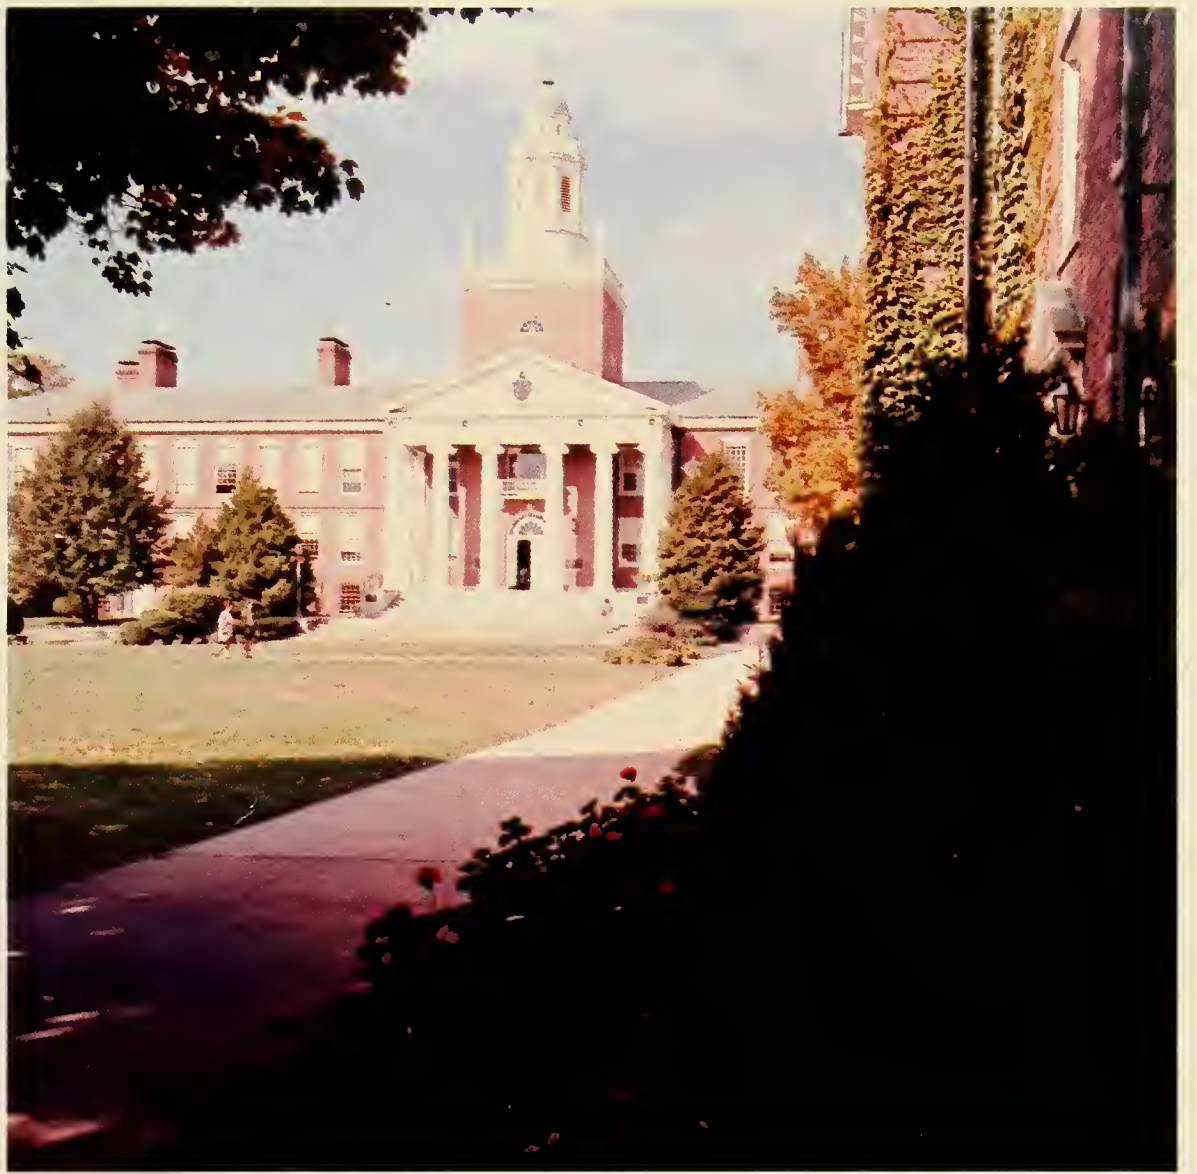

Memories of the old Bridgewater will always linger in our minds. No longer will graduating seniors recall freshmen labs in the history department, lunches eaten in empty classrooms, or classes in the men’s and women’s dorms. These belong only to the small classes.

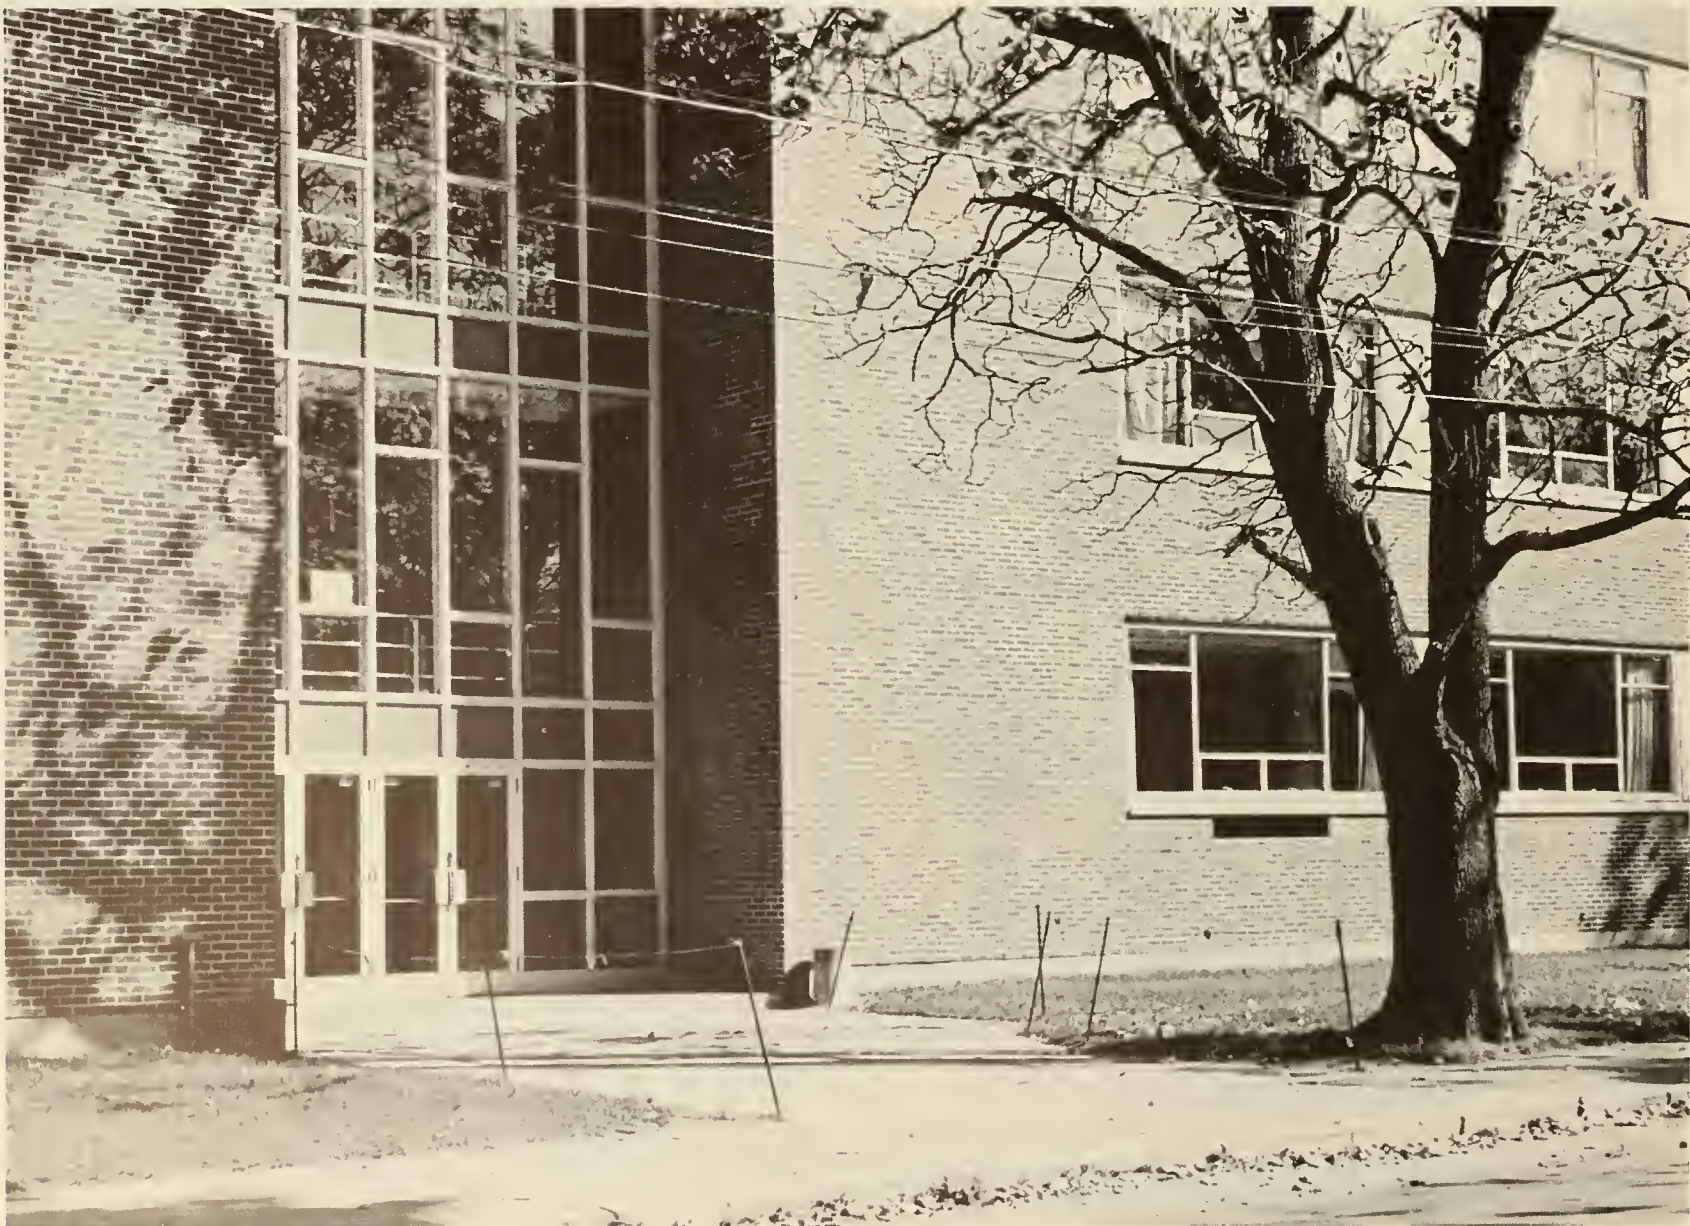

We dedicate this yearbook to the last of the small classes at Bridgewater State College—The Class of 1967.

Old Gives Way To New

A Symbol of Learning

“There are buildings for living, working, studying, learning and playing. Students go in and out of doors, through the hallways across the roads and somehow within this one dimension of their lives they are never untouched.”

THE YEAR

The red carnations, the academic garb, the half-filled auditorium—nothing had changed . . . except us. After three years of watching the faculty and seniors march in academic procession, it is our turn.

Homecoming '66

Remember the years when people went home during Homecoming? Remember the empty stands and the general lack of spirit? These are things of the past! This year a new spirit has emerged on the Bridgewater campus. Kindled by a winning football team, fans filled the stands to over-flowing to watch the Bears down Maine Maritime 23 to 8 at the Homecoming Game.

DRAMA CLUB

One of the most active and successful clubs at BSC is the Drama Club, which has contributed extensively during the past year to the cultural development of the rapidly expanding Bridgewater campus.

Geared for the education and enjoyment of its membership as well as the audience, the Drama Club follows the philosophy of learning by doing. The productions throughout the year offer the students opportunities to discover and develop talents on-stage, off-stage, and back-stage.

Richard Briggs, chairman; Joanna Diotalevi, secretary; Lin Curtain, treasurer; Henry Danis, co-chairman.

The 1966-1967 Assembly Committee, in presenting its highly-selective and widely-varied programs this year, chose for its theme IMPACT, an appropriate word for the time in which we live. The purpose of the Assembly Committee is to bring to the college programs which will contribute to the cultural growth of the students.

Part of the new outweighing the old at Bridgewater this year has been the new tremendous student and faculty response to and enthusiasm for the Assembly Committee offerings.

To every thing turn . . . turn . . . turn.
There is a season and a time for every purpose under heaven.
A time to cherish . . . friendly faces glowing in the candlelight . . . the hurried crunch of footsteps on the snow . . . a hundred wreaths of pine and berry . . .

Deck the halls with boughs of holly . . .
 a gaudy gown of red and gold upon a pyramid
 of pine . . . the ever-present song of silver chimes . . . ice-blue shadows dancing on the snow . . .
 and then . . . from one light, many, and a pilgrimage
 of lights that lace the campus in a glow of song.

. . . A time to be joyful . . .
 An apple, a pear, a plum, a cherry,
 any good thing to make us all merry . . .
 enormous platters of Christmas fare . . .

The ancient songs of birth and hope . . .
a thoughtful reverie of inner silence . . .
a childish lisp and an angelic vision . . .

. . . the infectious mirth of a mellow
 Santa Claus . . . the noisy twang of electric guitars . . . a pounding ritual of sound . . .
 youthful figures gyrating in fathoms of smokey
 heat . . . a frenzied joy that spills outside onto the frozen stillness . . .

. . . a sudden chill in the midnight air
and . . . laughing voices hush and fade into the quiet of a campus white with snow . . .

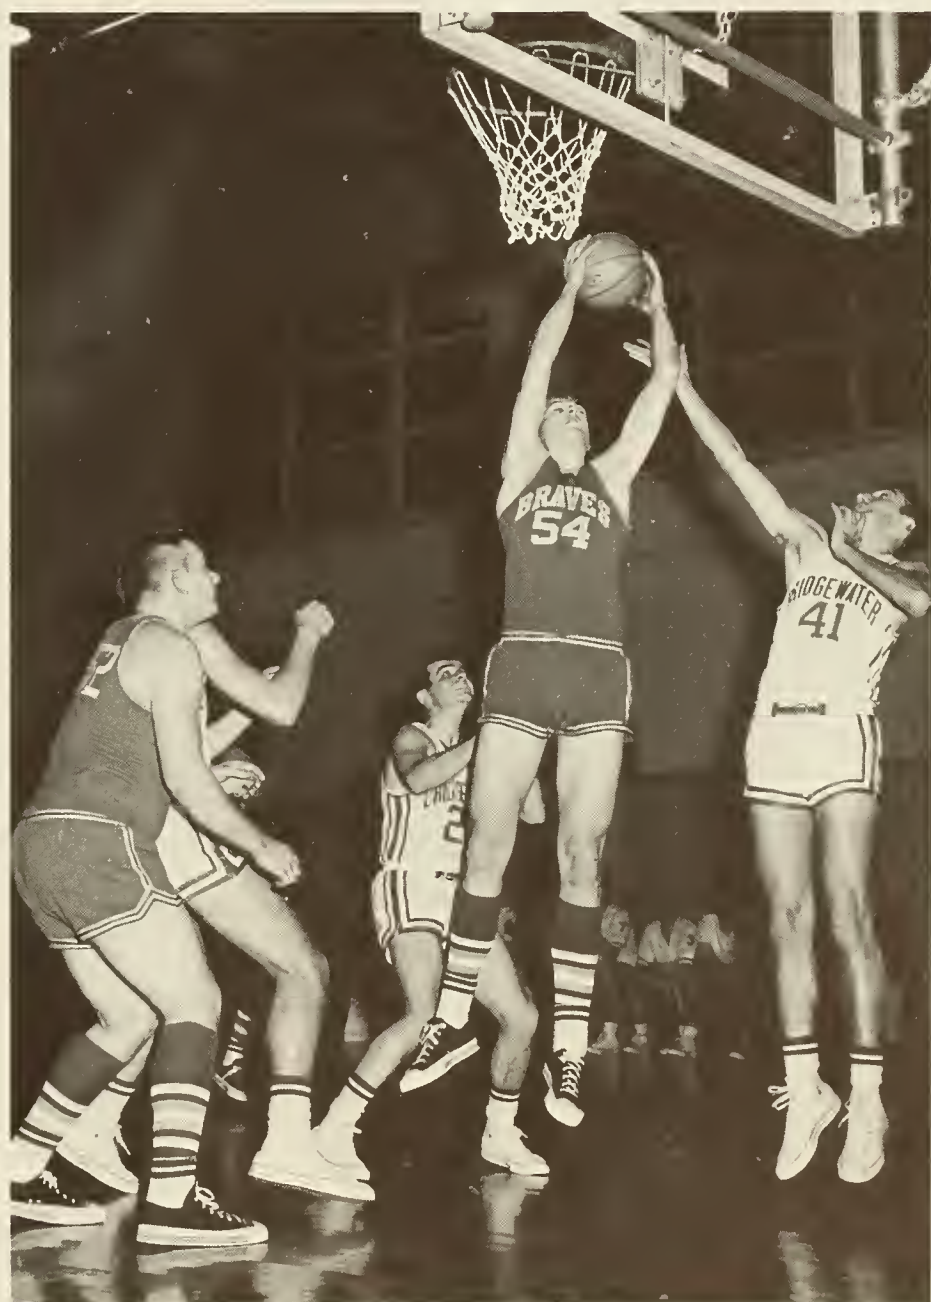

A time . . . to be . . . at peace . . .

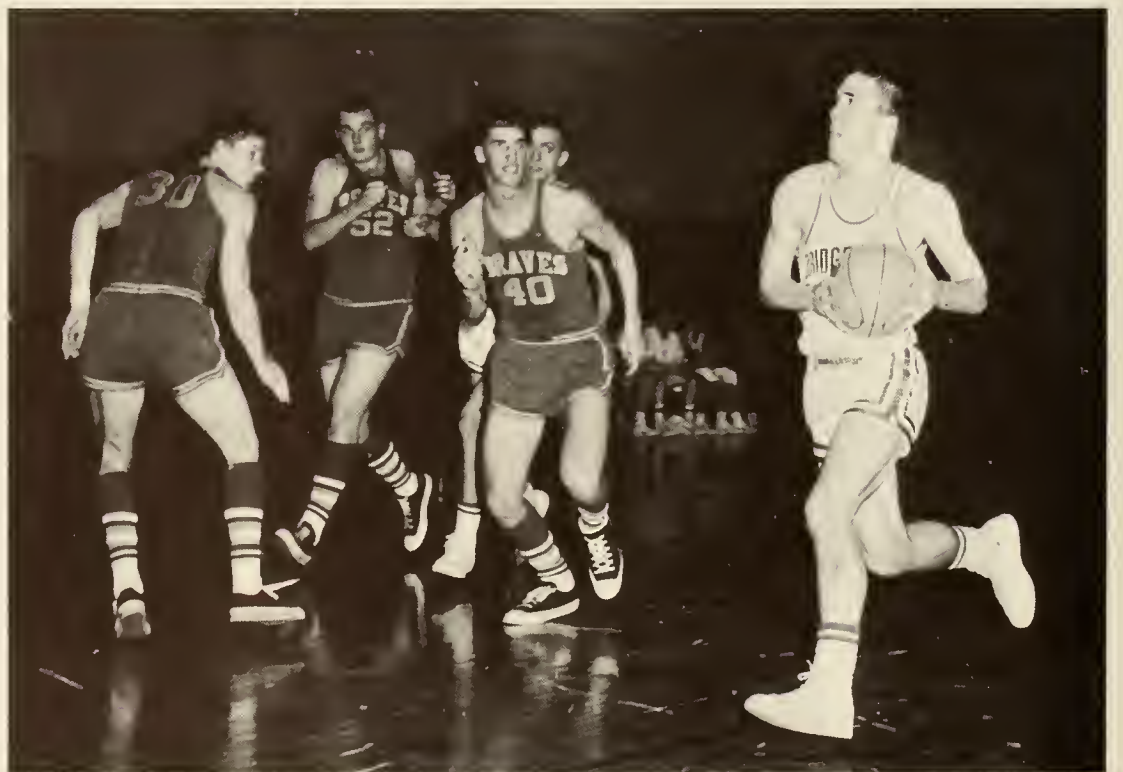

Under the guidance of new head coach Tom Knudson, the 1966-67 Bridgewater basketball team provided its followers with some good basketball, high-scoring games, and most important, some hard-earned victories. The Bears put a young unit on the floor, starting three juniors and two freshmen. There were no seniors on the squad.

Captains-elect Ron Broman and Al Petipas, along with freshmen Barry Fitzgerald and Barney Ross, will be the nucleus of next winter's team, which should improve upon this year's showing of 6 wins and 12 losses. Spirited support by the growing legion of Bear fans, especially in games against Salem State, Boston State, and Stonehill, give promise for a better future at B.S.C. for its fine athletic teams.

AWAKENING IN PARADISE

“Why should the devil have all the good times?”

Rowland Hill

"We must laugh and we must sing.
We are blest with everything."

Yeats

“Laugh and be merry,
Remember, better the world
With a song.”

Masefield

MODERN DANCE

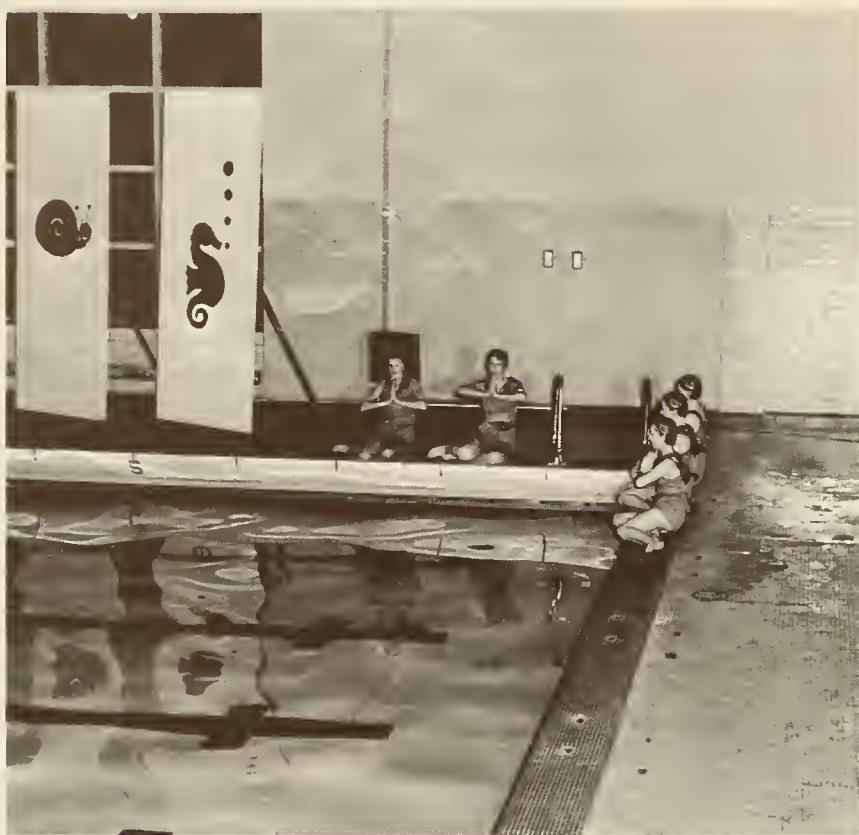

Movements transformed to moods . . . expressions of emotions through action and reaction . . . creative patterns of motion inspired by the rhythm and living pulsation of music of diverse origins: The classical period, old musical scores, modern broadway tunes, current movie themes, even electronic music . . . from old to new. The Modern Dance Club has provided the Bridgewater campus with their special form of culture which holds a respected position in the ever-widening field of the performing arts. A positive contributor to the campus community, the Modern Dance Club this year presented not only their annual spring performance but also took part in the Arts Festival weekend of activities.

Joyce Harrington, president; Mary Ellen Hemenway, v.p.; Anaelyse Teevan, treasurer; Lyn Baldwin, publicity chm.

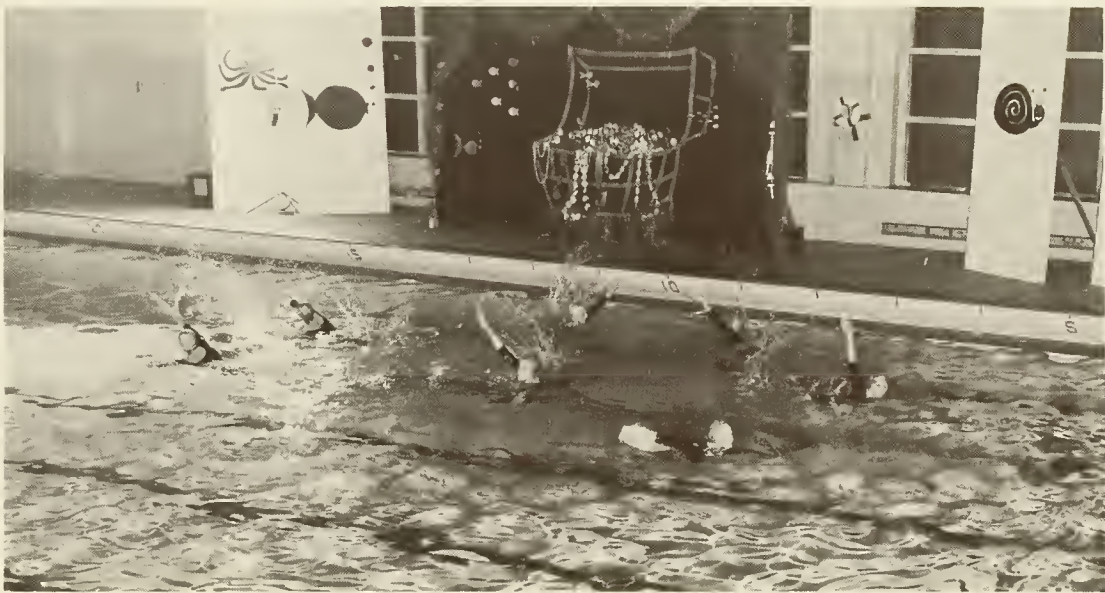

AQUABRYTES

One of the highlights of the school year originating from the campus gymnasium is the performance of the water show of synchronized swimming by the skilled and talented members of the aquabrytes.

Working with the theme "Treasures of the Deep" the marine performers choreographed and presented a variety of numbers which helped demonstrate their creativity and agility in the water.

The BSC mermaids set a precedent for their organization this year by adding with great success three men—known as the Aquaknights—to their membership.

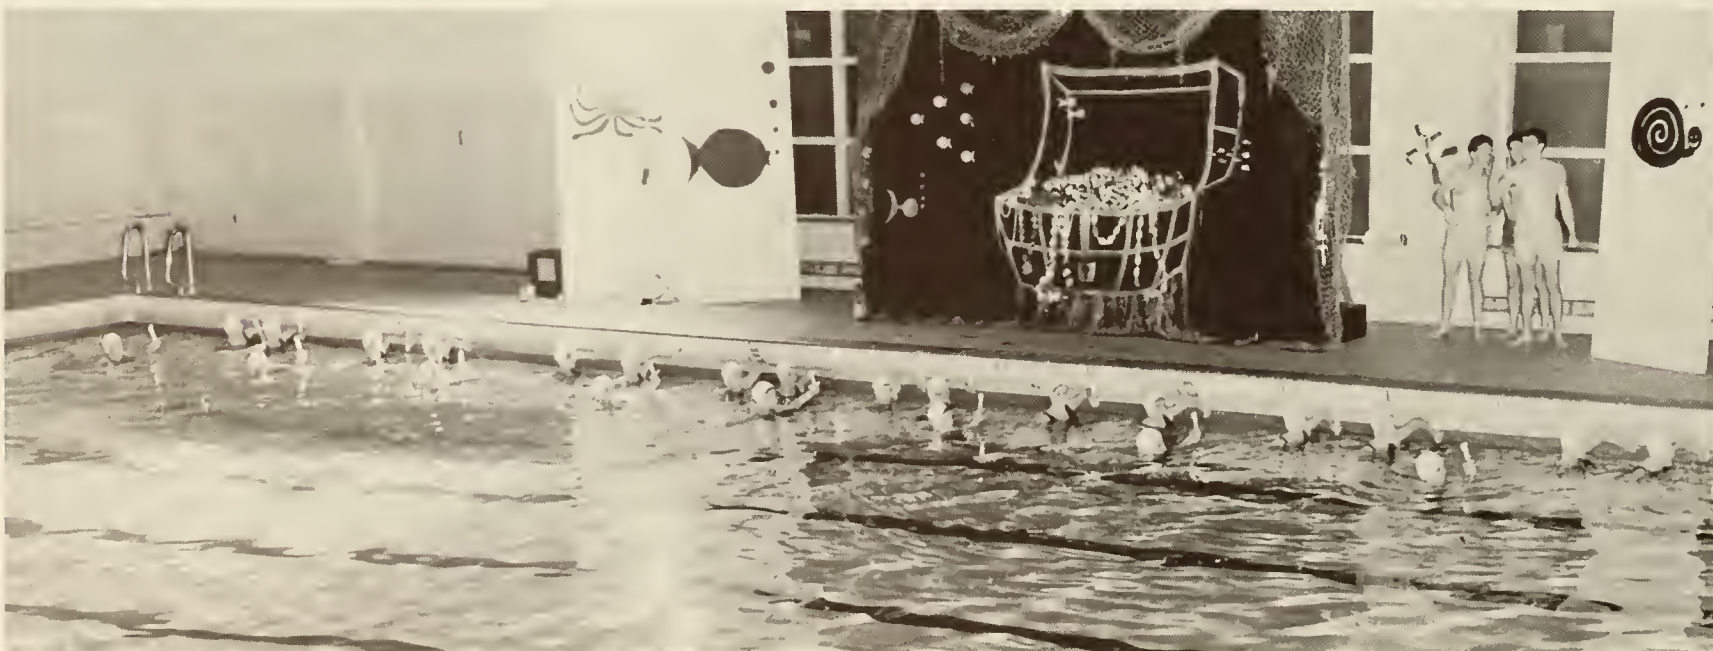

VISUAL ARTS FESTIVAL

Exposure to, and awareness of, some of the variety of forms available in contemporary art should be considered as important in education as exposure to ideas and forms in scientific or political thinking.

Lowenfeld and Brittain

Aware of this need for aesthetic exposure in the immediate and surrounding communities, the Visual Arts Club at Bridgewater sponsored the second Festival of Arts to provide entertainment and cultural enlightenment. A spirit of involvement penetrated the Festival, evidenced by the enthusiastic support of artists and viewers.

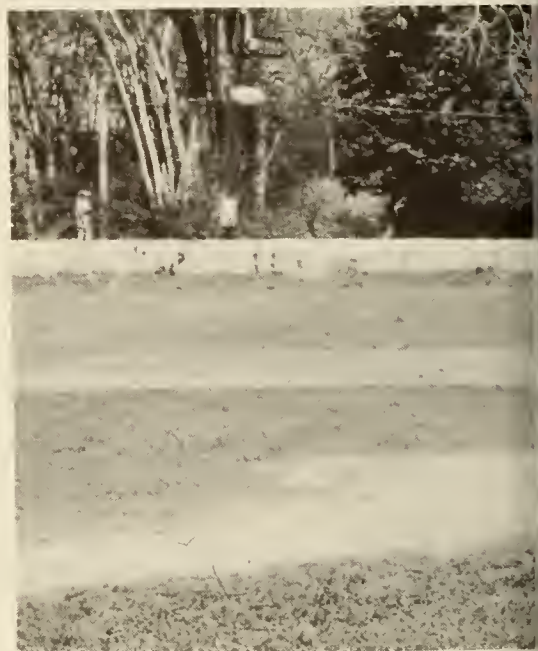

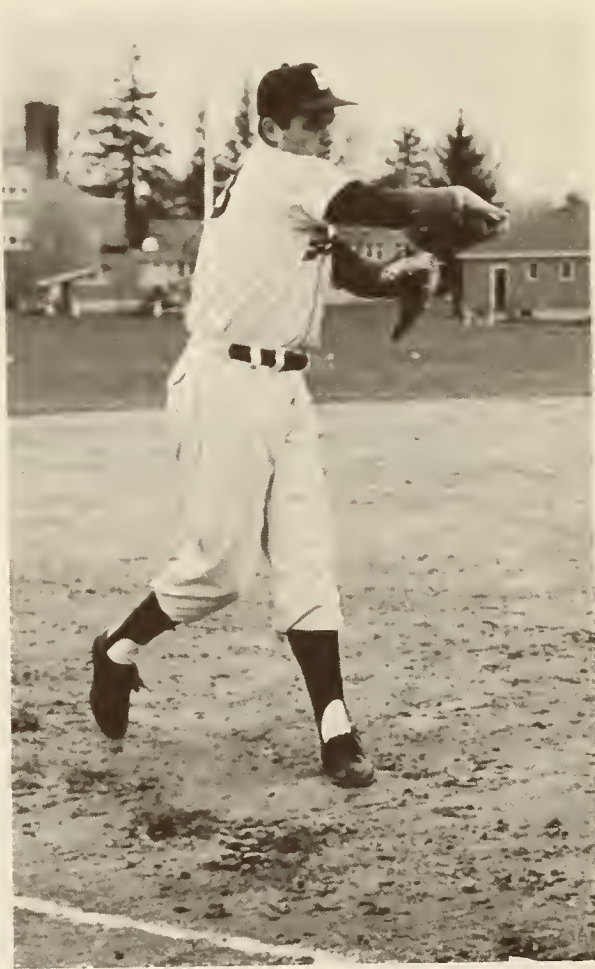

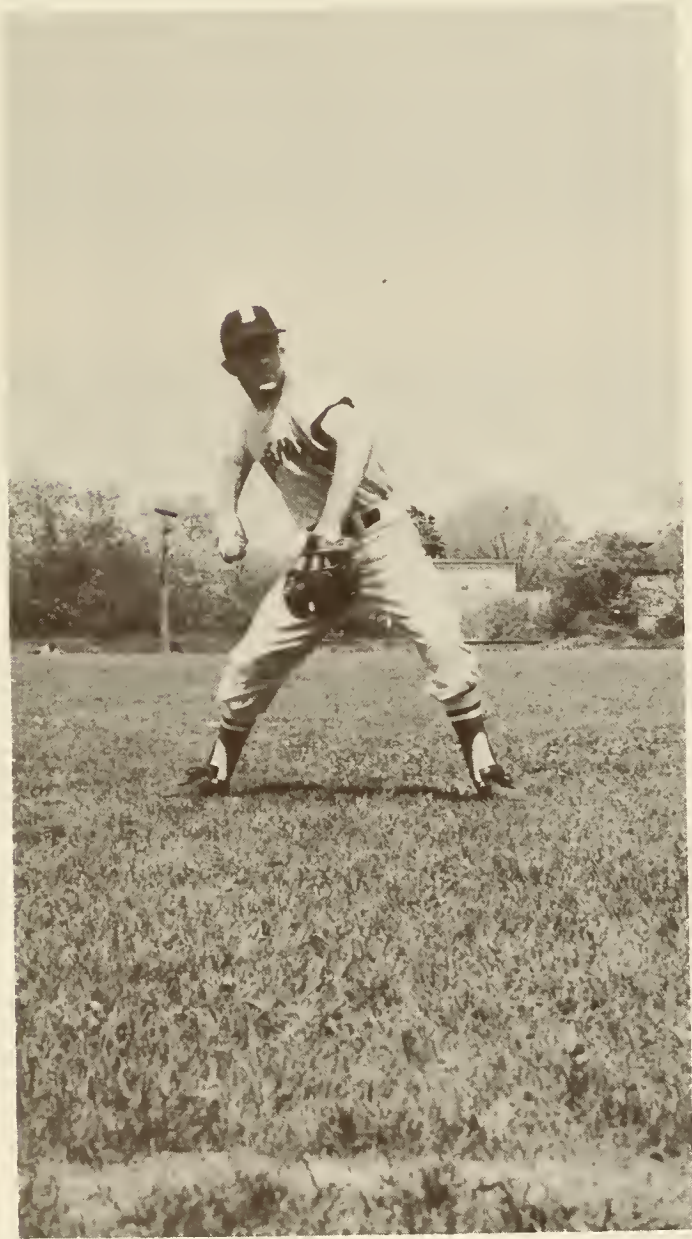

In the physical composition of the Festival, changes were astounding. Contributions by the participating organizations supplied an entertaining and educational program for all during the four day festivities.

Creative interpretations by the Modern Dance Club, talented renditions by the State College-Community Orchestra, and varied selections of the Glee Club's Spring concert, once again drew appreciative audiences. As a special attraction this year, the Drama Club skillfully presented two one-act plays, while also supplying the Festival with wandering Minstrels who told their stories in song, both old and new. Other innovations were performances by the Aquabrytes, an organ concert, and a Day Student Association concession stand. Most impressive also was the increased number of demonstrators who exhibited their handiwork.

Thus, the novelty, excitement, and satisfaction derived from this second Festival of Arts has definitely broadened our sensitivity to the techniques of contemporary art and successfully assisted in communicating the values of the arts as physical, emotional, and intellectual experiences.

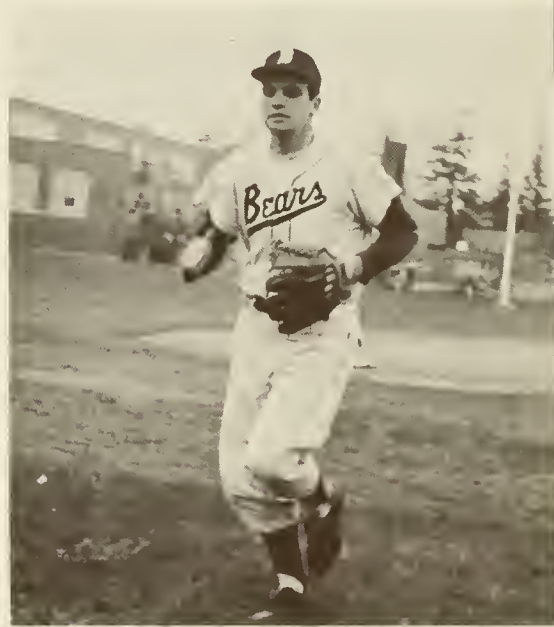

The weather put a damper on many of the 1967 spring athletic events, forcing cancellations and postponements throughout the season.

Harry Lehman's baseball team won its share of games behind the slick fielding of shortstop Ken Dalzell and the batting of senior Broni Baronowski. Another young team, this club will be strong in the future.

BASEBALL

TRACK AND CROSS COUNTRY

The track team, under the direction of Mr. Swenson and student coach Joe Roper, beat three teams while losing others in dual and tri-meets. The track team had no senior members, was hurt by inexperience, and was continually plagued by bad weather.

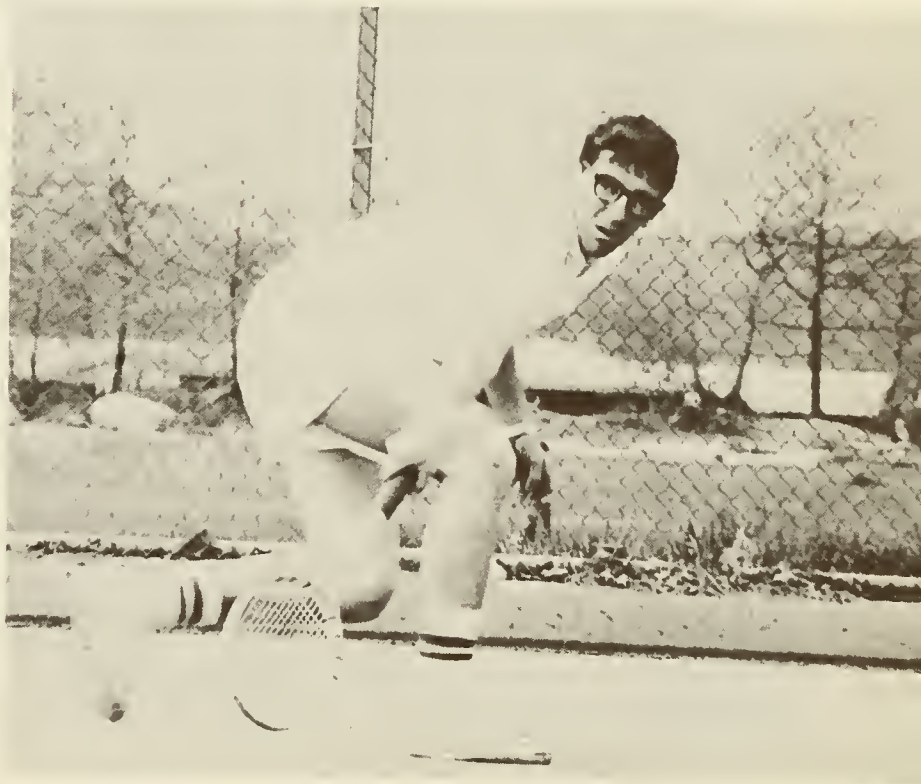

Senior Doug Bromley paced his golf team to its best season ever, compiling an 11 and 3 record.

GOLF

TENNIS

Coach Rosen's tennis team, playing for the first time on our newly-resurfaced courts, won its share of matches. Frank DeMello, the senior captain, was a consistent winner.

Office of the President

Dr. Adrian Rondileau

College graduates provide the key leadership in solving the major problems of our time.

Among society's critical problems are issues of war and peace, the ways and means of developing an equitable social order in all respects -- including a reasonable distribution of wealth and of opportunities among the peoples of the nation and among the peoples of the world.

We also need ways and means of coming to grips with the explosions in human population, in knowledge, and in science and technology -- as well as the concomitant problems of automaton and mass control by the mass media.

College graduates above all should be very conscious of the desire that everyone has to get simplistic -- that is, misleadingly oversimplified answers -- to the overwhelming complexities we face. This is a temptation we must all resist. Above all a good college education should teach us to be suspicious of simple solutions to complex problems, and to have the analytical ability and objectivity to recognize all the principal pros and cons in the great issues of the day.

The second thing that every college graduate should be keenly aware of is the price one pays -- and should be willing to pay, in many cases -- for involvement and action instead of indifference and/or detachment. On the one hand, detachment may be cold, impersonal and insensitive; but, on the other hand, may be precipitate, ill-considered, and self-defeating. The beginning of true wisdom, therefore, is to care about the great issues; and not to fall into the trap of oversimplified solutions; to be able to weigh the values of detachment versus action and appropriate involvement in any given situation. All these things, to be sure, are easier said than done but the educated person must try very hard to do so.

College graduates must develop these abilities and motivations both as undergraduates and subsequently if they are to fulfill their role as creative leaders of their kaleidoscopic world.
